Now therefore the Minister of Health, in exercise of the powers conferred on him by the said sections, and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby makes the following regulations in the terms of a draft duly approved by resolution of each House of Parliament:—

1.—(1) These regulations may be cited as the Civil Defence (Water Supplies) Regulations, 1949, and shall come into operation on the twenty-second day of November, 1949.

(2) The Interpretation Act, 1889(c), applies to the interpretation of these regulations as it applies to the interpretation of an Act of Parliament.

(3) In these regulations, the following expressions have the meanings hereby assigned to them—

“the Minister” means the Minister of Health; and

“statutory water undertakers” has the same meaning as in section 1 of the Water Act, 1948(d), and includes also persons who, though not authorised by or under any enactment to do so, are engaged in supplying water to the public.

2. It shall be the duty of all statutory water undertakers—

(a) to supply the Minister within such time as he may specify with such information as he may require regarding the measures they have taken or are taking or proposing to take to secure the due functioning of their undertaking in the event of hostile action, by way of—

(i) planning such control centres and stores for the dispersal of stocks, and such additional works for the purpose of by-passing vulnerable points or supplementing existing supplies of water, as may seem necessary in areas likely to be subject to hostile attack;

(ii) the provision and maintenance of an adequate number of vehicles, and adequate stocks of materials, plant and equipment for such repairs and works as may be required in consequence of damage by hostile action to mains, plant, equipment or other works, and for ensuring emergency supplies of water until the repairs or other works are completed;

(iii) planning protective measures for works and plant;
(iv) training employees, and also members of the Civil Defence Corps whose services are made available for the purpose, in the repair of damage to mains, plant and other works; and
(v) arranging mutual aid schemes with neighbouring statutory water undertakers to operate in the event of hostile action or a threat of hostile action; and

(b) to take within such time as the Minister may specify such measures with respect to any of the matters mentioned in the preceding provisions of this regulation as the Minister may direct.

3. If any statutory water undertakers fail to comply with any requirement of the last preceding regulation, they shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, and, if the failure in respect of which they were so convicted continues after the conviction, they shall be liable on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding ten pounds for each day on which the failure so continues:

Provided that if any undertakers are convicted for failing to comply with a direction given by the Minister under paragraph (b) of the last preceding regulation, the court by which they are convicted may give a reasonable period from the date of conviction for compliance by the undertakers with the requirements of the direction, and, where a court has fixed such a period, the said daily penalty shall not be recoverable in respect of any day before the expiration thereof.

4. Sections 36 to 39 of the Civil Defence Act, 1939(e), in so far as they relate to statutory water undertakers, are hereby repealed.

Given under the official seal of the Minister of Health this twenty-first day of November, nineteen hundred and forty-nine.
